LONG CAMP
IN 1806, LEWIS AND CLARK WAITED 6 WEEKS FOR DEEP SNOW TO MELT ON THE HIGH RIDGES OF THE LOLO TRAIL TO THE EAST OF HERE.
Their route home blocked, they spent 4 of the 6 weeks (May 14 - June 10) at their long camp across the river. They hunted, fished, and amused themselves showing the Nez Perce Indians "the power of magnetism, the spye glass, compass, watch, air gun and sundry other articles equally novel and incomprehensible to them." Finally, with three Indian guides, they got away on their long journey back to the United States.
